

FUND STRATEGY

The Delafield Fund will seek to achieve its objectives by investing primarily in the equity securities (i.e., common stocks, securities convertible into common stocks or rights or warrants to subscribe for or purchase common stocks) of domestic companies. Specifically, the Fund will primarily invest in equity securities which the portfolio managers believe to be undervalued or to represent special situations. An example of a special situation is a company undergoing change that might cause its market value to grow at a rate faster than the market generally.

Calendar Year Returns

QUARTERLY UPDATE

- Strong domestic economic data and corporate earnings results drove U.S. stocks to gains in July and August that more than offset the negative tone of equity markets in September. With respect to the U.S. economy, data releases during the quarter showed rising wages, further declines in unemployment, increased consumer net worth and advances in consumer confidence. In terms of earnings, 80% of companies in the S&P 500 Index reported earnings above expectations during the prior quarter, and revenue growth approximated 10% year over year. However, stocks weakened in September, with the negative impact coming from the trade war between the U.S. and China and the mention of which began to appear in several corporate preannouncements.
- Stylistically, our investment approach remained out of sync with the market. During the quarter, the Russell 2000 Growth Index returned 5.52%, outperforming the Russell 2000 Value Index by nearly 400 basis points. U.S. small cap stocks, as measured by the Russell 2000 Index, reversed course, and underperformed large cap names.
- The Fund returned -0.26% during 3Q 2018, trailing the 3.58% gain in the Russell 2000 Index, and the 7.71% increase in the S&P 500 Index. The Fund's lack of exposure to the Health Care sector cost the portfolio nearly 60 basis points of relative performance, as it was the strongest contributor to the Russell 2000 Index. The portfolio's Materials holdings were most detrimental and negatively impacted relative return by about 150 basis points. The Fund's relatively large cash reserves also continued to detract from relative return. Industrials were again the portfolio's top performing category, generating about 180 basis points of absolute return and 80 basis points of relative performance.
- The top contributors during the quarter included Fabrinet, Harsco Corp and Acuity Brands, Inc. In contrast, Diebold Nixdorf was the largest detractor, followed by TTM Technologies Inc., and US Concrete Inc.
- Several positions were initiated during the quarter, the most substantial of which included Mohawk Industries Inc. and Schnitzer Steel Industries Inc. The largest exits included Xerium Technologies Inc., Boardwalk Pipeline Partners LP, and Diebold Nixdorf.

DISCLOSURES

Mutual Fund investing involves risk. Principal loss is possible. Past performance is not a guarantee of future results. The Fund invests in smaller companies, which involve additional or special risks such as small companies rely on limited product lines, financial resources and business activities that may make them more susceptible than larger companies to setbacks or downturns; and small cap stocks are less liquid and more thinly traded which make them more volatile than stocks of larger companies.
